SINGAPORE – Singapore's dedicated event for office and business solutions is back with an expanded profile of corporate wellness and team building solutions for the first time at Marina Bay Sands.

The 4th annual Office Expo Asia (OEA) is the one-stop for workforce development, office solutions and products for the office. This year's emphasis is on a new focus sector, the workforce – the backbone of any business.

OEA 2016 Sponsor and Exhibitor – Deliveroo is using the Exhibition as a launchpad for their on-demand premium food delivery service to penetrate the corporate market in Singapore.

First launched in London, Deliveroo has since charted an exponential growth with its delivery bikes being used in over 30 towns and cities across the UK. They help bring meals from a wide selection of independent and high-quality chain restaurants right to customers' homes or offices, in an average time of 32 minutes. Deliveroo has had more than 1,000 restaurants join the family in Singapore, including Paradise Group, PS Café, Chopsuey Café, to name a few.

Also participating in OEA this year is Singaporean startup, Grain, which has their dishes designed by in-house culinary Masterchefs. Using high-quality raw ingredients, creative cooking techniques, they deliver restaurant-quality food to customers. At present, Grain feeds many offices in Singapore, including prominent technology companies, trading firms, law firms and multinational banks.

A regular cold pressed juice subscription can too be a creative healthy option for corporate wellness initiatives. Daily Juice's pressed juices are extracted from fruits and greens to provide a variety of plant-based minerals and vitamins in which are crucial for our daily intake. Delivery services are also available – stored in airtight bottles and chilled, these juices retain their nutritional value for up to 3 days.
